

Namita Bhandare
Journalist

Namita Bhandare has nearly 30 years of reporting experience for various publications including magazines Sunday and India Today, and the daily, The Hindustan Times. She was appointed India's first gender editor for Mint newspaper, and continues to write a fortnightly column on gender and social issues for The Hindustan Times. More recently, she has been working on a series on women and work for the data journalism website, IndiaSpend.